

Who will read the bedtime story when Mommy leaves for Afghanistan?

Mommy will!

United Through Reading® records soldiers overseas reading books and sends the DVDs and the books to their children back home.

Time was, when soldiers returned from war, their children didn't even recognize them. Now when soldiers are serving overseas, they can read stories to their children...wish them goodnight... and tell them they love them... all from half-a-world away. It's part of United Through Reading, a program that keeps families connected when military deployment tears them apart.

Help the USO ease the strain put on military families by wartime separation.

At USO locations around the world, United Through Reading video-records soldiers reading books and sharing personal messages for their children. The DVDs and books are then sent home so the kids can "read along" with their parents so far away.

Your tax-deductible donation now can help more military families in crisis. Children are reassured that Mommy or Daddy is OK. Service members share a few moments with their kids – and know that while they are always missed, they will never be forgotten.

This is one of many causes that can be supported through your annual CFC contribution. Please take the time to make a difference. Every contribution is worthwhile and provides the support needed now more than ever.

Your Hands Can Shape The World.

How the United Through Reading Military Program works:

- Soldiers are videoed reading a children's book
- DVDs and books are mailed home
- Kids watch and respond to their parent on TV